Pastoral Transition Points of Contact

Overview

We are in a transition. This can often be a time of anxiety. At the same time, transitions are healthy opportunities for the church community to strengthen and embolden its calling, relationships, worship, and work.

It happens naturally in a staffing transition. Churches don't realize it. However, the church can often look to the remaining staff and leadership to carry more of a load than they should be expected to. It will be absolutely essential for Mosaic to not lean too heavily on a staff person or set of leaders. For the transition to happen more fluidly, the responsibility must rest on the proper person for each area of leadership.

The following document is to provide the point of contact for key aspects of Mosaic.
